Our Staff of Physicians

Dr. Chi K. Tsang is a member of the radiation oncology physician group, Radiation Medicine Associates of Scranton (RAMAS), serving cancer patients at Northeast Radiation Oncology Center's (NROC) two sites in Dunmore and Mercy Hospital in Scranton.

Dr. Tsang graduated magna cum laude from Alma College, MI, where he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He completed graduate studies in physics and engineering at the University of Michigan where he earned a Master's Degree in Bioengineering and a Master's Degree in Computer, Information and Control Engineering. He received his Medical Degree from Wayne State University School of Medicine, MI.

He completed his residency in Nuclear Medicine at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center and his residency in Radiation Oncology at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center, NY.

Dr. Tsang is Board Certified in Radiation Oncology and Board Eligible in Nuclear Medicine.

Prior to joining RAMAS, Dr. Tsang was Medical Director of the Department of Radiation Oncology at St. Catherine Hospital Cancer Center, KS.

In addition to his extensive experience with Intensity Modulated Radiation Therapy treatment (IMRT), Dr. Tsang has special expertise with Brachytherapy and also with Radioimmunotherapy and Radioisotope Therapy, two new types of radiation treatment also known as "liquid radiation." Thanks to Dr. Tsang's specialized training and the physician group's commitment to providing innovative treatment options, eligible patients with non-Hodgkin's Lymphoma and also cancer patients experiencing bone pain may benefit from these new "liquid radiation" treatments at NROC centers conveniently close to home.
